I am in the midst of sorting and scanning old photograph prints to digital format. It has sparked memories that have not surfaced for many years and in some instances decades. I have occasionally been compelled to share the captured memory with the people in the picture via text messaging. That has prompted interactions of reminiscing and renewed laughter. This project has become a reminder of the many connections made through the years. Connections to people. People who are important to what I have experienced and the person I have become. It has reminded me of the importance of connecting with people. More vitally, the importance of being connected to those who make up the body of Christ. I encourage all of us to reach out and make new connections. Strengthen connections. Perhaps repair connections that have been damaged. We help each other grow and develop as the body of Christ, and as people, when we are strongly connected.

"Instead, we will speak the truth in love, growing in every way more and more like Christ, who is the head of his body, the church. 16 He makes the whole body fit together perfectly. As each part does its own special work, it helps the other parts grow, so that the whole body is healthy and growing and full of love."

~Ephesians 4:15-16
